“On the Front Lines”:
A Report and Update on the American Labor Movement and Related Topics for 2006

This year will prove to be a turning point for both labor and management. There is a revitalized labor movement in the land, following the rupture in the AFL-CIO. Break-away unions will attempt to organize new businesses and certain industries, such as mass market retailing; health care; and grocery chains, will be the focus of intense organizing efforts. In addition, health insurance benefits and pension plans will be two of the hottest topics on negotiating tables around the country.

What will this mean for union and non-union companies? For workers and for management? This program will highlight the American Labor Movement's Agenda for 2006 and beyond. An update will also be given on recent Federal Court and National Labor Board decisions that could impact your workplace.

About our Speakers:

Michael S. Pepperman, Esq.
Peter A. List
James K. Hulsizer

His practice is restricted exclusively to the representation of management in every phase of labor and employee relations, wage and hour and employment discrimination.

Mr. List is a labor and employee relations consultant. He spent nearly a decade in the union movement, as a member of the Communications Workers of America and held many positions, including Chief Shop Steward.

Mr. Hulsizer was a senior union organizer and official with the International Brotherhood of Teamsters for nearly a decade, before becoming a Senior HR and Labor Relations Executive for the Trump organization.
