Social Networking and the Workplace

Facebook, Twitter, MySpace..... How many of you have no clue how to access these networks? How many of you have accounts? How many of your employees spend a lot of time during their work day accessing these sites? Do you have a policy in place about accessing these on company time? Do you search these websites as recruiting tools or check to see what applicants have posted to these sites?

Please join us to learn how HR may be able to utilize the social networking trend as well as steps to control it during the work time.

You will get insight into the excitement and dilemmas of these social networking sites.
